Hello to all members, I hope this newsletter finds you all busy in the spring outdoors doing various activities that you have been looking forward to over the winter. As I write this on April 12th, the weather is definitely spring like and the snow is virtually gone for the present time. I'm sure all you bear hunters are getting prepared for the emergence of the bruins and ready to set up camps and enjoy the weather and the fellowship of the hunt and the new season unfolding.

You lucky hunters that have been drawn for turkey will be soon making plans for that hunt. All of us fisherman have given up the ice fishing by now and await the open water and seasons opening for walleye and pike. The salmon fishers amongst us will be scheming of making our getaways and hoping to catch Tyees, Cohos and the rest of that salt water clan. Good luck to all and may the season be rewarding in all respects.

The membership in our club stands presently at 2552 members which includes all the types of membership combined. This is well above the number this time last year and starting to approach our membership cap of 3,500. If you know past members who haven't renewed or people who want to become new members, encourage them to join before it is too late to do so. Please note that ALL new members who want to use the ranges require a range orientation before they can shoot. These are always given the last Sunday of the month and can be arranged at other times if there are sufficient numbers at a session to make it feasible for the instructor to come out.

Speaking of ranges, ours are becoming much more active now that fair weather is upon us and will be even more active in the near future. Please follow all instructions on the signs and obey by all the rules posted at each range. The rules are for responsibility and safety and following them will ensure that we don't have any incidents that could prove dangerous or have our ranges shut down by the CFO for non-compliance. Such things as shooting at targets on the ground or rocks in the ground result in ricochets that can leave our range and strike our neighbours' residences. This will definitely have our range shut down. If all members observe the rules, and point out the rules to other members who might not know them or are not following them as expected, we will continue to have a range to shoot at.

Awards Night on March 31st was attended by approximately 160 members, spouses, their guests, and sponsors. The evening was a success and the lucky winners of the draws, and the successful bidders on the auction items, went home with some great merchandise. Thanks to all the committee members who organized the event and put in all the work for it to run so smoothly. Thanks once again to all the sponsors who provided the trophies and the dinner to the individual award winners. If any member has a suggestion of something that you think would make the evening an even bigger success the club would love to hear your suggestions. Anything you can think of in terms of prizes, donations, format of the evening, entertainment -- anything at all please feel free to submit the suggestion. I can be directly contacted as can any member of the executive. (see contact info in the newsletter)

The outdoor activities at the property continue to heat up as the weather heats up. Organized shotgun/trap shooting will be starting up soon, watch for the announcement --- see you there on Sundays and Wednesday evenings.

The archery range is being improved and has more 3D targets so get out there and enjoy all you archers.

The fish pond will soon be thawed and the fish should have gained some size from last year --- the younger members of the club will be ready for action so get them out and teach them how catch and release works.

Keep your eyes on the newsletter and your email accounts and phone messages regarding upcoming events like the annual work party on June 2nd which will have all ranges closed to shooting so that work can be completed safely. We usually get a good turnout and are hoping to do so this spring as well. If you can help please set aside that date and meet at the clubhouse at about 8:30 A.M. June 2nd. A few of the jobs to be done are: wood hauling, wood splitting (mechanical splitter), wood stacking in various places, painting, cleanup, campsite work, something for everybody to do regardless of skill level or fitness!!

The club provides lunch, supper, and liquid refreshments of all types.

The work party is a great way to meet new people interested in the same things you are and help out the club.

If you want to get more involved in the club other than just shooting, camping and helping at the work party we are always looking for newer and younger members to become part of the steering committee for the club. After all, it is your club, and where you want it to go and what you want it to do are up to you. The club is always looking for people to be in-involved on the executive -- if you have an interest in this area you need not take on a chair position necessarily, but you could help a chairman by becoming a co-chair. This gets you involved and your ideas are more easily converted at this level to what you want done. It's always easy to complain that things aren't as you think they should be but harder to volunteer and change them.

Get hold of any chair that you have an affinity for and contact the individual or contact me. General meetings are attended by about 40 members each time and we would like to see those numbers increase if possible. What would you members like to see in the way of speakers for these meetings? We tend to have biologists and wildlife related people but any suggestion is worth a try. If you have something or somebody that you would like to hear and meet please contact me as soon as possible so that we can set up a time that they can come to a meeting. If the format or the the timing or the venue needs changing in your opinion-- we're always open to that as well. All suggestions will be closely considered.

Hope this wasn't too long winded for you and that you read to this point! Until we meet or until the next newsletter --- tight lines and straight shooting.

Pat Harris.

HI- TECH FISHING

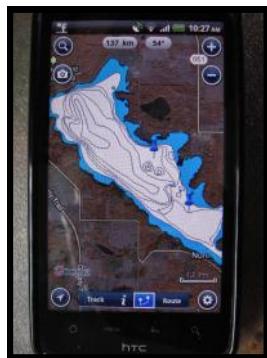

Let me start by stating that there are thousands of anglers every year that are successful catching lots of fish without the use of the following electronics, however for us techies, this is a great time to be an angler.

There are Sonar units offered now that not only show sonar readings, they may also be equipped with GPS, Radar, Weather, Satellite Radio, Downrigger Controls and the newest technology side/down imaging.

Some of the newer trolling motors offered by Minn-Kota have GPS built into the head unit. These I-Pilot units allow you to automatically track back on previous routes, set trolling speeds and bearing, lock onto a position and hold you within approximately 5 feet of that area and store numerous tracks, routes and waypoints. All of these functions can be performed with the use of a remote control with on screen readout and is about the size of a cell phone. If you have one of the newer smart phones there are numerous fishing apps and Navionics mapping apps that are available for most units. I have the Navionics app on my phone and it has pretty good detail on most of the lakes I have checked. The pic to the left is off my phone of Lac La Nonne. More detail is available when you zoom in.

Today is definitely the age of high tech electronics, and the latest hi-tech technology to hit the market over the past few years are sonar units equipped with side and down imaging. Humminbird was the first manufacturer to introduce imaging technology and continues to improve the clarity and resolution every year.

Although imaging technology is not as clear as an underwater camera it is getting close, and in years to come I believe it will be. Side Imaging technology has a vast viewing range compared to underwater cameras with the higher end units extending out to 240 feet on both sides of the boat. Imaging technology does take some practice on the water, to interpret what you are actually seeing, but the information it provides is, in a word.....awesome.

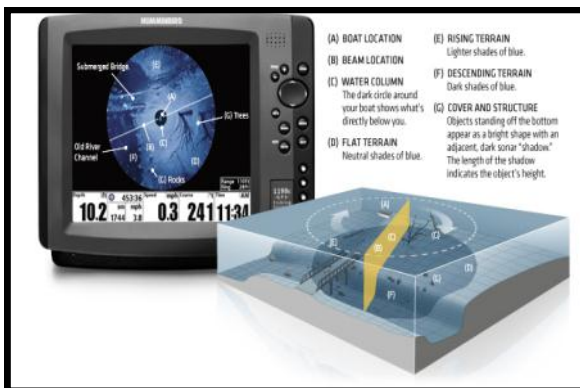

Down imaging offers another view again which is basically a very wide view to both sides of the boat, but only about 2-3 wide extending from the back of the boat. Another good feature of these units is that you can view spit screens, showing side imaging, down imaging and standard sonar all on the screen at the same time, but there are about 20 different options from you to choose from, depending on your need at the time.

This fall Humminbird is about to release another improvement in imaging technology called 360 Imaging. 360 imaging can view a maximum of 150 feet in all directions including forward. This is the first sonar unit to ever offer front viewing sonar. With 360 imaging your screen updates similar to radar, with the complete screen updating every few seconds, unlike standard sonar or imaging which scrolls across the screen. There will be various speed and range settings with the capability to split and zoom on each view separately or the full 360 view. If you identify some particular structure or fish you will be able to toggle your cursor and mark a waypoint on that spot. Humminbird is continuing to field test this product and add improvements as they are recognized. Imaging technology is not cheap, and you can expect to pay a few hundred dollars for just the sonar/down imaging units and up to a few thousand dollars for the most advanced imaging units.

If you are looking at purchasing your first sonar unit or upgrading the unit you have be sure to check out the new Imaging units at your local sporting goods store. I purchased my first sonar unit in 1987 and have seen the improvements over the years. I believe imaging technology will continue to improve over the next few years and I am very excited to see just how good it gets!

Whatever unit you decide on, be sure to get out there fishing this summer and take a kid fishing. Fishing, in my opinion is one of the most enjoyable family activities and I look forward to getting out on the water soon!

NEWS AND VIEWS

AFGA Celebrates The Abolition Of the Long Gun Registry!

(Edmonton April 5, 2012)... Alberta's largest conservation group, the Alberta Fish & Game Association (AFGA), is delighted by today's vote in the Senate to dismantle the long gun registry. The gun registry has become a multi-billion dollar burden placed on taxpayers' backs for years while at the same time having no visible impact on crime reduction. The vote was 50 to 27 which included 3 Liberals who did not vote along Party lines!

The AFGA has opposed the registry of long-barreled firearms since day one as it believes that such legislation will not reduce crime. As an example, handguns have had to be registered since the 1920's and yet they are more prevalent in crime scenes today than ever before.

Criminals simply do not register their firearms.

AFGA President Conrad Fennema said, "The cost of the registry was simply irresponsible spending of taxpayer dollars as was assessed by the auditor general on at least one occasion. The money could have been better spent in dealing with the root causes of crime."

Fears expressed by those with little or no understanding of firearms and their acquisition that anyone will now be able to purchase a long gun are totally unfounded. Individuals who wish to acquire a firearm or ammunition are still required to have their backgrounds checked, qualify for a licence, and pass a firearms safety course while also complying with all firearms safe storage and transportation requirements. Further, those who already own firearms will also still be required to hold a valid firearms licence. Restricted firearms such as handguns must still be registered.

The Alberta Fish and Game Association is a not-for-profit volunteer organization proud to serve Albertans in the promotion of the wise use of our fish and wildlife resources and the conservation of their habitats. The AFGA has been active since 1908 in working towards these goals and has a province-wide membership of more than 21,400 individuals spread among 100+ Clubs.
